VOLUME XXXVII

Barron-Bickford.

A very pretty home wedding occurred at Orono, Wednesday, Nov. 21, at 11 o'clock, a. m., at the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Barron on Forest Avenue, the contracting parties being Callie Cosette Barron and Ross Lewis Bickford of Norway.
The ceremony was performed by the Ven. George S. Robinson, archdeacon of the Penobscot of Old Town. The Episcopal ring service was used. The bride was given away by her father. The ceremony took place under an arch of evergreen and white roses in the parlor. The bride looked lovely in white lace, down to the ankles, with a long veil and a crown of roses. The bridesmaid was Gertrude Barron and the best man J. Frank Barron.
Both Mr. and Mrs. Bickford are popular young Norway people. Mrs. Bickford lived here with her parents till they moved to Orono a few months ago. She attended the Norway schools and has many friends and acquaintances in the village. Mr. Bickford is a member of the firm of Bickford Bros., Lapidaries, dealers in state of Maine gems. He is the son of the late Major Wm. K. and Mrs. Bickford. The family came to Norway from Thomaston several years ago, the major being landlady of the Beal's Hotel during the first years of their living here and Ross was the popular hotel clerk.
Lunch was served at 12 and the happy couple departed on the 2 o'clock express for Bangor. The bride wore a becoming traveling suit of navy blue English broadcloth. They received a large number of appropriate presents from their friends and all join in wishing them years of success and happiness.

A. J. Stearns returned Monday from a hunting trip at Welch brothers' camp near Big Richardson pond. A. E. Stearns of Rumford Falls went with him. Both reports game plenty in that section. There were 28 deer on board before the train reached Rumford Falls when he came down.
Mrs. Ira Harriman of Fore Street, Oxford, telephoned us, Wednesday morning, "I saw in the ADVERTISER last week that I was critically ill. I wish you would say to my friends that I have returned from the hospital, where I had a slight surgical operation. I am now as able to be about the house, and hope as soon as I gain a little more strength, I will be attending to my housework as usual."

Most Democratic of All Places.

Two hundred sons and daughters of the Pine Tree State gathered at the Hotel Astor, Thursday night for the fourth annual dinner of the Maine Society of New York. Suggestions of "Home" were in the decorations and small pine trees fresh from Maine graced the tables. A pair of tiny snow-shoes was attached to each menu card. Even the water served was sent expressly for the occasion from one of the State's famous mineral springs.
Dr. Abbott declared that Norway, Me., was the most democratic of all places in the world. After declaring that Abraham Lincoln's definition of democracy, "A government of the people, for the people and by the people," was the best ever coined, Dr. Abbott went on to discuss what true democracy meant in politics, in religion, in education and industrial developments.

There will be a meeting of the musical people at the Congregational church, Friday evening at 7.30 o'clock, to make arrangements to again take up the work of a Norway Festival chorus. Karl Lester Tower will probably be engaged by the chorus as director and accompanist.

W. I. Russ and George Witham returned Saturday from a hunting trip. Mr. Russ brought with him two deer and Mr. Witham, which were shot at East Hill near Upton. George Davis of South Paris, who was working for Mr. Russ during his absence, was taken sick and was obliged to return home. For this reason Mr. Russ' shop was closed for a few days.

Ursula C. Gammon, the piano tuner, and "Young Put" Richardson have returned from a ten days' hunt to West Stoneham. "Put" saw a deer but Gammon won't admit even that much. They stopped at Wm. Gammon's and had a good time anyhow. The Adamses have got several deer, maybe four or five, but there are four or five Adamses.

There will be a temperance meeting at the Methodist church, Sunday at 3.30 m., under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. for the children. A special feature of the meeting will be the children's singing. Mrs. Addie Braden and Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge Walker were called to Gorham the first of the week to attend the funeral of Eugene Tenney, a nephew of theirs who fell between moving cars, while working as a brakeman last Saturday morning in Gorham yard. The unfortunate young man, some years ago, worked in this office as a type-setter. He was a grandson of the late Edwin A. Morse of this town, and was 37 years old. He had an insurance of $1750, on his life.

Rev. H. H. Hoyt of Hiram preached an interesting sermon at the Universalist church, Sunday morning. The attendance at the evening service was unusually large and the remarks of Mr. Hoyt on mission work were listened to with much interest. The solos by Carrie Tucker and Mrs. Frank Kimball were exceptional. Rev. Dr. Henry Blanchard of Portland will occupy the pulpit, Sunday, the 25th.

A Few Familiar Names.

We have received a private letter from an old Norway boy with the express or "not for publication," but it is so good, and as the writer lives in the middle west we take the chances of his forgetting it before he visits Norway, and publish the following:
I will enclose two dollars for renewal to the ADVERTISER. I do not find quite as many familiar names in each issue, as I did forty years ago, still the paper is like a letter from "home," and I miss it very much if it is not in sight on Sunday morning. This last number gives notice of another of the old familiar names, who has just passed away, Rollin Towne.

I was especially interested in your article about the Kickapoo Indian, Dr. J. W. Johnson, so have referred to my diary of 1862 to see if I have any notice of him, for he was one of the soldiers of the 14th Regiment that was sent home from New Orleans, when our surgeon said it was cheaper to send us home than to bury us in New Orleans. Groveson Crockett and Dr. Johnson were on the Steamer Fulton with me that left New Orleans, July 16, 1862, and we arrived in Norway ten days later, the 26th. (I find in this diary the doctor's due-bill for $7.15 for money advanced him to help him through.) The wounds he received must have been rather slight for he never served in the ranks, was Capt. Cheney's cook and did very little, if any, other service, and left for home before we ever in any engagement. The doctor appeared with his Indian friends in his old red of Indian doctor in Norway only a few weeks after we got home, and I never saw him since.

I think of but two of the old boys of the 14th now left in Norway, Dave Flood and Frank Mixer. There may be others that I have lost track of.

Hope this finds you in good health, and that I may have the pleasure of seeing the old village and some of the friends I used to know at least once more.

"The Young Naturalist" is a new Norway magazine edited and published by Harry A. Packard, the versatile writer and enthusiastic naturalist. It sells for 5 cents per copy or 50 cents per year. It is illustrated by half-tone cuts and contains entertaining reading for the young naturalist as its name indicates.

Over 100 partook of the supper served by the Universalist circle at Concert hall, Tuesday evening. After supper a short entertainment, which was very much appreciated by all, was given. This consisted of the farce, "Per Telephone," by South Paris talent, a solo by Mrs. Frank Kimball and a duet by Mrs. Cowan and Miss Noble.

A recent letter from Judge Wiswell before whom the Thompson vs. Cummings case was tried has been received and plainly shows that the verdict was in favor of the defendants even though the court docket entry was the reverse, which came from a misunderstanding between the Court and the clerk of courts who made entry as he understood the Court to say, and got it "verdict for plaintiff. This settles it, and the costs of defendants' witnesses will be paid by the plaintiff.

In the Sunday New York World in the story of "General Grant Began It," the largest picture illustrating it is from a photo taken by Merrill of Norway. "E. H. Jones, Mrs. Nellie Grant Sartoris, Rosemarie Sartoris and Friends on Tour in Maine." This picture was taken when the party was in Norway.

The mud on Norway's streets, especially on Bridge street, Monday, was something to dread travelling through. Right at the particular spot of which we are about to write the mud was of the very soft, dark, sticky kind, six inches deep. C. B. Cummings & Sons' staid, bay truck horse, that has worked on their teams for years was in company with the teamster going home for dinner. The horse had the harness on, but was without the truck cart. The man was on the sidewalk and the horse walking along through the mud. When the horse got to the middle part of the way a mischievous twinkle lighted up his eye and he laid down and rolled in that mud, once, twice, thrice. The driver got him up and a muddier horse and harness was never seen.

The Epworth League held their monthly business meeting, Wednesday evening. Matters of much interest to the league were considered. Following the meeting games were played and refreshments were served.

Correspondents and advertisers are requested to send in the news and copy for changes of advertising one day earlier than usual, for next week. It's Thanksgiving week and the paper will be out one day earlier than usual.

Mrs. M. A. Oxnard left Norway, Monday. She will spend a few days in Portland with friends, and expects to be in Logansport, Ind., for Thanksgiving. She will spend the winter there with her brother, Henry Tucker, and family.

The fact that a family recently shipped their goods to Norway with the intention of securing rent here, and after a short stay were unable to find one, and had to have their goods shipped back where they came from goes to show that something ought to be done to provide rents here.

SOUTH PARIS.

Franklin P. Burbank.

Franklin P. Burbank, a well-known resident of South Paris, died very suddenly Tuesday morning at Gorham, N. H., where he has been doing carpenter work. He came to the table but a short time when he gave a gasp or two and the lady where he was boarding, noticed that something was the matter, and thought him to have been falling from the chair. Death was instantaneous. Mrs. Burbank was in her room at the time. Mr. Burbank was born in Gorham, N. H., and was 51 years old last July. He was married to Ella Winslow daughter of J. H. Winslow of Paris, Jan. 18, 1877, and they have resided here for many years.

Their only child, Frank W., was drowned at Lake Auburn last June. Besides his wife he leaves one brother and four sisters to mourn their loss: John Burbank, Mrs. M. F. Potter and Annie Burbank of Gorham, N. H.; Walter Buckley, Auburn and Mrs. Lillian Cole, Chrystal, N. H.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows, under which order the funeral services were held. Short services were held at Gorham, Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and the remains were brought to South Paris, the funeral being held from the Congregational church at 1.30, Thursday. Rev. A. K. Baldwin officiated at both churches. Burial at Riverside cemetery.

Alva Shurtleff Dead.

Alva Shurtleff died at his home in South Paris, Wednesday evening at the age of 89 years. He was born in Paris and has lived there and at South Paris the greater part of his life.

Born in life he learned the trade of a shoe maker but soon went into trade at Paris Hill and afterwards came to South Paris and for many years was in trade in the store now occupied by N. Dayton Bolster & Co.

He retired from active business some 25 years ago. He was a director of the Norway National bank for many years and was also connected with the Norway Water Co., and the South Paris Savings bank. He severed his connection with these some years ago on account of failing health.

He served for many years as treasurer of Paris and was the first president of the South Paris Savings bank, and for years was intimately connected with the industries of the town. At one time he was engaged in the manufacturing of shoes.

He deceased leaves a widow of about 60 years, a son, Wm. K. Shurtleff of New Jersey, and a daughter, Mrs. Chas. D. Brown of Salem, Mass.; also two brothers, Sylvan and Aretus Shurtleff of Portland and a sister, Nancy Whitman of South Paris.

CURED OF DYSPEPSIA

Commander Dean writes: "As Chief U. S. Mail Agent of the U. & D. R. E., good health is indispensable. I found myself, however all run down with Dyspepsia. I doctored and doctored, but I grew worse. I suffered misery night and day, for fully two years. My case was pronounced incurable. I chanced to meet Dr. David Kennedy about that time, and told him of my condition and he said, try a bottle of take it morning, noon and night, and it will cure you. I took the medicine as directed, but had no confidence in a cure, as my case had been tried by so many. After using it a week I began to feel better, and in a short while after that I was entirely cured. That terrible distress, everything I ate breaking up sour in my throat, had all gone and I have not had a moment's discomfort since. To-day there isn't a healthier man and my appetite is excellent."

DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY

"How Many Crimes are Committed in Thy Name?"

Waterford, Me., Nov. 21.

EDITOR OF THE NORWAY ADVERTISER: Permit me to draw the attention of your readers to some letters which have been recently and doubtless yet are, circulating in these sections.

I write to protest against the superstition which under the name of religion is propagated by these letters, and also to assure those who may have been unsettled by them of their uselessness.

Under the sanction of a Bishop Lawrence, the letters generally come from some friend who has been deluded by them. The receiver is requested to write to nine friends an enclosed prayer. If this prayer is not complied with the receiver is threatened with some great calamity. Here is the evil. Has the law no power to stop this threatening through the post? Such threats can be a source of grave evil to the simple and those with a morbidly religious mind.

The wonder is that sensible people yet are misled by such things. Such religious superstitions, like many others that yet hang about some of our churches, tends to drive those of common sense and reason away from those things that make for righteousness and spiritual life. Thanking you for your courtesy for this insertion.

Minister of Waterford United Churches.

Barrington—Charles.

A very pretty wedding occurred at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Farrington at Fryeburg, when their only daughter, Edith Beth, was given in marriage to Leon D. Charles. November 7th. The parlor was prettily and tastefully decorated with fir boughs and crimson and white crepe paper, the latter being the class colors of the bride, who is a graduate of the Gorham Normal School.

At five o'clock when the strains of the wedding march were played by Mrs. E. F. Doughty, the bridal party consisting of the contracting parties, the matron of honor and best man entered the parlor and stood beneath an arch of green and white, while the ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. F. Doughty, the double ring service being used.

The bride was very becomingly attired in white silk and carried a large bouquet of white chrysanthemums tied with white satin ribbon. The groom was dressed in conventional black with white vest.

After congratulations had been offered the guests were invited to the dining room, where they were to partake of the wedding supper. A reception followed. Many guests were in attendance and many presents were received by Mr. and Mrs. Charles, which shows that they have a wide circle of friends. During the evening refreshments were served and the groom, very liberally, treated his male friends to cigars.

An enjoyable evening was passed. Musical selections given at different intervals were indeed an addition to the occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Charles took an early train at Conway Corner for Boston, where they will spend their honeymoon, after which their friends will be glad to welcome them back to Fryeburg, where they will make their home with the bride's parents.

Their friends, after searching the early train at Fryeburg and going through the ten o'clock to see if Mr. and Mrs. Charles were on board, were very much disappointed to learn that they had boarded an early train, Thursday morning, at another station than Fryeburg and thus escaped the customary shower of rice.

"For the aching back—should it be slow in recovering its normal strength—an Allcock's Plaster is an excellent comforter, combining the sensation of the sustained pressure of a strong warm hand with certain tonic qualities developed in the wearing. It should be kept over the seat of uneasiness for several days—in obstinate cases, for perhaps a fortnight."

"For pain in the back wear an Allcock's Plaster constantly, renewing it as it wears off. This is an invaluable support when the weight on the small of the back becomes heavy and the aching incessant."

The Necessity of Kindness.

I have just received the last ADVERTISER, Nov. 16th, and my heart was made glad by Mrs. Hattie A. Small's plea for more kindness.
I wonder why so few people are interested in the subject. I wonder that it is not taught in our churches, our schools and our homes. It seems to me to be the only substantial foundation for the upliftment of mankind. Its practice would not only "save the pieces," 'twould preserve intact the whole ten commandments. It would empty our prisons, abolish our almshouses, and the large number of lawyers, judges, policemen, constables, etc., would become producers as well as consumers.
The immense standing armies of the world would have to become proficient in the arts and crafts of peace, for there would be no more wars, and taxes would shrink like a dandelion young man when he goes up to "ther" father; and all that if only kindness were more and universally practiced.
Even "divorce" would become unknown as there would be no grounds, "statutory" or otherwise.
And the dumb creatures! The poor, long-suffering victims of human selfishness and thoughtlessness. The ducked, docked, half-starved, over-worked horse! The most useful creature that man was given dominion over, he suffers most at our hands.
What an avalanche of suffering is awaiting us, if the pagan belief is true, that we must personally suffer every pang that we cause, whether to man or beast. To me it is a beautiful belief. We "reap what we sow." Good!

Look at the children who are allowed to pull off legs and wings of insects, torture kittens, etc. If their parents are not pained at the suffering of the tiny victims I should think they would fear the brutalizing effects such practices must print on the plastic minds and morals of their children. If children were taught at home how very silly as well as unkind it is for them to tease the cat and dog, they would mostly soon learn to be ashamed of being cruel, and in time, perhaps, might learn to develop by process of evolution into a race whose highest ecstasy of bliss would not be the witnessing of the death agony of some one of God's forsaken wild creatures which we had slain. We might even learn to fish without live bait (one of the most unnecessary cruelties of our kind). If there were as much stress laid on being kind as there is in keeping the Sabbath we should soon be as surreptitious about committing cruelty as we now are about plying the needle or playing cards.

We put up a terrible "holier" when we are abused or ill-treated, but very few of us would bother to go across the street to relieve pain which does not concern us.

What an untold amount of unnecessary suffering there is in the world, and how needless seem our efforts to abolish it. A boy treated recently of kindness and self-respect would not be apt to break his mother's heart by becoming a drunkard. But what's the use? I might write on and on, and presume it will not hinder one act of cruelty, nor abolish a solitary pain. Thanks, Mrs. Small for your kind words, but they are likely to fall on deaf ears, don't you think? You were entirely right, but what's the use?

CORA M. W. GREENLEAF.

Frog's Legs.

How many people when they take up the menu card and their eyes rest on the words "frog's legs," stop to think how this toothsome dainty is secured for the market?

In a shallow stretch of water, where the bank of the stream is thickly grown with shrubs and bushes, where small mossy ledges with over hanging leaves offer the coolest kind of a haunt for Master Bullfrog. On warm summer days, he sits out on his favorite ledges, just hidden from the vulgar gaze, and philosophically blinks and blinks at the bright, wide world stretched out before him.

As he sits thus meditating, a grunt of supreme self-satisfaction escapes him for Master Bullfrog, like many another creature, is inordinately vain. That one little grunt is his vanity. A moment later there crosses his vision the most wonderful object his eyes have ever beheld. It comes from somewhere above and floats slowly, and oh, so gently and tantalizingly down until it is almost within reach. Master Bullfrog no longer dreams but sits up alert and watchful, and his eyes glow at the glorious sight. Unconsciously his substantial legs are drawn up ready for a spring, for he means to capture the tempting morsel and devour it for his supper. He has never eaten so fine a piece of beef, so red and juicy.

Closer and closer it swings, and just at the right moment, with a great puff of his green breast, he leaps out and engulfs the dainty in his great distended mouth.

But instead of descending gracefully into the pool beneath to enjoy his supper in quiet he finds himself impaled upon the sharp point of a hook that catches its way into his jaw and holds him dangling helplessly in midair. And the beef, it wasn't beef at all but just a piece of disgusting red flannel wound skillfully around a big fish hook, that has wrought his complete destruction. A moment after the aerial trip, the great, great rough hand mercilessly pulls Master Bullfrog from the hook and thrusts him into a waiting basket, where already are gathered a dozen or more of his compatriots, all of whom were deceived by the same miserable ruse.

From the basket to the hotel kitchen is not a long journey, and when the chef's helper once gets the luckless amphibians into his clutches he makes short shrift of them and their hind legs are soon ready for the frying pan.

The French say that "Nothing is a footless stocking without a leg," and that is about the only thing you cannot buy or sell through advertising.

Now that the weather bureau has adopted the simplified spelling for its bulletins, we may expect considerable and this winter.

He who rides a hobby thinks he is entitled to the middle of the road.

SUCCESS IN DAIRYING.

It is the Small Leaks That Cause the Failures.

Little leaks in the dairy are the cause of every failure in the dairy. The man who ruins his business by some wild venture can justly lay all the blame to a spirit of gambling. He has got the disease called "get rich quick," which has been the ruin of thousands in this money made age and has nothing to do with the business he is regularly following. When it comes to a lifelong occupation like that of dairying we must make preparation for stopping all the leaks we can and thus add to the profit of our work.

The trouble with most of us is that we overlook, don't see, these small leaks that make such a large total when added up at the end of the season's work, says Home and Farm. To begin with, most of our dairymen are not equipped for detecting these leaks.

For instance, one has often heard that hay cut when too old has lost a considerable portion of its feeding utility—that is, when the horses or cows eat it they do not get as much benefit from it as if it had been cut several days sooner.

But the farmer answers it is much harder to cure it in a half ripe stage, with risk of loss from rain, and, again, if he sells it he gets more because it weighs more. This first excuse is no excuse at all, for without trouble you cannot make money. It is this dodging trouble that keeps many, if not most, farmers poor all their lives. If you have to feed your hay on the farm, then in order to get the greatest income from it you should have it in the very best condition, and the only way to do that is to take more trouble with it, put it up in smaller cocks, so it will cure more rapidly, work a little harder and faster to avoid the rain, and you many times save a great deal more money in the outcome of the crop.

Milk Easily Tainted. A dirty tin bucket will injure the quality of the milk and affect injuriously the butter made from that milk, no matter how carefully the work is done subsequently.

Do not let dirt get into it and keep it cold enough to make good butter, and then you have mastered the situation. One thing about the milk room—have the floor on the ground and made of cement, for you are sure to spill more or less milk or cream that will spoil and taint the air of the room, but if the floor is made of cement and you wipe it up before it dries no damage is done. If the floor is wood you cannot wipe or wash the oil out of the wood, though painting it will help.

If you have been in the habit of marketing your butter in long rolls or packed in jars or cans, you will be astonished how much better it will sell if you make it into pretty prints wrapped in parchment paper. It will on an average sell for 5 cents more a pound and sell faster if made to suit the fancy of the buyer. The grocer likes to handle pretty looking pats and will recommend it before a better article, for he knows how lady buyers judge by the looks of things rather than the taste.

Have your own stamp, so that those who like the butter will know how to tell it when they come for more; then it looks as if you were ready to guarantee the article and were therefore sure it was good.

The Profitable Cow. Always have the barn and fastenings arranged so that the cow will be comfortable, as the comfortable cow is the profitable cow.

There is no excuse for omitting cranberry sauce from the Thanksgiving dinner this year, for the crop of cranberries was unusually large and of the best quality.

Another Open Winter.

An aged weather prophet says—"We are going to have another open winter in 1907. I can smell it in the air."

"The birds are staying later than usual this fall, which is always taken as a sure sign that winter will not come until after Christmas. Last week I saw swallows and humming birds and thistle birds, all of which are in the habit of getting away late in August."

"The hens have hardly begun to shed their feathers yet, and most years they have moulted and started in to lay by October 1. The partridges are very thinly clad with feathers."

"The corn husks are very scant and gaunty. Burrs on beechnuts and hazelnuts are so thin and soft that a child can bite through the toughest of them."

"Cattle and horses out at pasture till very recently look as sleek as they did in June, indicating that they have not begun to think of putting on winter overcoats. Woodchucks, which should have retired for the winter in September, are out loafing at the entrances to their burrows."

"Chipmunks have laid by very small stores of nuts and grain, though the beechnut crop has been the biggest for 10 years. Look anywhere you will and the evidence stands out and meets you and tells you that the winter will be brief and warm."

"Hunters who have shot deer say that the antlers are still growing, or in the velvet stage, though the love making season is very near. Though there have been several cold nights, and though I have rubbed the backs of several fat cats to get electric sparks of the fur, I have not heard so much as a crackle as yet. This is because the coating of fur on the cats has not become thick enough proving that the cats are not making any haste about putting on winter garments."

"Unless the signs fail, ice will be high and pneumonia will be plentiful and graves will be open often between now and next March."

New Method of Luring Foxes.

A well-known fox hunter has divulged to the public a secret method of luring foxes to their destruction which he claims to have used for years and has never known to fail when there was a fox in the neighborhood of the place where he went to hunt them. The method is simple he says, and was acquired through a thorough knowledge of the fox's nature and appetite. Foxes are, as everyone knows, very fond of mice and are wont to hunt them in the fields where the mice make their homes. The fox can hear the cry of a field mouse for a long distance, so this man says, and all that one has to do is to seat himself behind a stump or a fence if there is not a stump handy and imitate the cry of a field mouse. When the fox shows up the gunner's gun does the rest.

The man says he has tried it lots of times and never knew it to fail. Sometimes he had to wait ten minutes and sometimes as long as an hour, but the fox was sure to come if there was one in the neighborhood. He has fooled many foxes in that way and says he is going to try it many times more.

The Idol Industry.

The manufacture of idols for the export trade to countries where the natives are still disposed to join themselves to them, has become a regular industry in at least one city of the United States. Idols for the trade have been manufactured in Europe for some time, but it appears that a United States firm has succeeded in producing a more attractive article and is in a way to secure a large proportion of the patronage of heathendom.

The English were the first to see the opportunities presented by the trade in idols, but the pattern of idol which the English manufacturer sent out reflected his own ideas, rather than those of his customers. It had what our 'lady' novelists describe as excessive 'embonpoint' and it was altogether too substantial in price and otherwise. Yet it was what the Briton felt sure that the heathen ought to want, and he set out to convince his heathen brethren of that fact.

The American, watching for new trade opportunities, assembled some cheapness, gaudiness and flamboyance and turned out an idol that filled the heathen with joy and brought back rewards in cash.

As time has gone on, the American manufacturer has put so much improved expression into his gods that the heathen will have none other gods but his. Even the American-made devils show a hideousness that holds trade by its own compelling force. Whatever the heathen demands in the way of wooden gods, devils and monsters at any price the American factory is said to be prepared to turn out. The field that the pious gardener found so hard to bring under Christian cultivation is sending America its orders for gilded idols.

Perhaps in some not distant year on the decrease of one of our millionaire idol-manufacturers, we may find established by his bequest a magnificent endowment for the work of converting the idolaters of the heathen world. His business, however, will be conducted by his heirs.

A Fine Horse.

This is the expression of all who have seen the imported black Percheron stallion, just arrived at J. M. Cummings' stable from McLaughlin Bros. of Columbus, Ohio. Mr. Bliss, McLaughlin Bros.' representative, will be pleased to have all interested in a draft stallion call and see this fine animal at the above named stable. We have thought for a long time that it would be of great benefit to breeders and horsemen of this part of the State to have a stallion of this kind kept here as there is a constant demand for horses of this type. We understand that this stallion was approved by the French government to stand for public service in France. Mr. Bliss comes here well recommended from other places where he has sold imported stallions.

Maine Pomological Meeting

At Harrison.

The 3rd annual meeting of the Maine State Pomological society was held at Harrison, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 14 and 15. President Z. A. Gilbert presided. Alphonso Moulton, a member of Lakeside Grange, gave a cordial address of welcome and spoke justly commendable words of the town of Harrison and its large and progressive Grange. The response was by Charles E. Wheeler of Chesterville. The annual address was by the president. At the time of the organization of this society, our Maine apples were dependent on the local markets and the Boston and New York situation is not very different from what it was a year ago. Your president has strong faith that our important fruit-growing industry is not destined to be seriously decimated by an insignificant insect, but that intelligent action will sooner or later discover a way by which its damaging presence can be overcome. Meanwhile we must be active and spare no expense in disputing its advances till other aid shall come to the assistance of the situation.

Attention was called to apples packed in a box and sent from Oregon as an excellent way to pack apples for shipment, other packing boxes were shown by E. L. Lincoln of Wayne, C. A. Arnold and Editor Collingwood of the Rural New Yorker. Bernice Watson of Gardner had a large and valuable collection of insect pest; Dr. E. P. Turner, a new mouse exterminator to destroy field mice in orchards.

Prof. Maynard of the Massachusetts Horticultural and Fruit Growers society said, with them, insect pests, the apple moth, codling moth, brown-well, gypsy and San Jose scale—all are bad. Individual orchardists could not remedy the danger and the State should help. The pomology of the State has had a valuable ally in the Experiment Station conducted with the University of Maine at Orono. Prof. Maynard of Maine at that college said that the station wished to join hands with the farmers.

The Connecticut Horticultural society was represented by Chas. A. Wheeler. He told of the different tools and apparatus for practical orchardists' use.

Prof. Alfred G. Gully of the Connecticut College of Agriculture spoke along the same lines.

Wm. Craig of Auburn, late of Quebec, told Quebec societies that were to a large extent local, but idea now was to consolidate into one large Provincial society.

The Maine society are looking for even a better apple than the Baldwin. Chas. S. Pope of Manchester thought that a Farmers' special fruit train with an exhibition of trees in all stages of development would be useful. The new apple diseases should be carefully studied. Maine was the best State in the Union for apple raising and abandoned farms might be profitably used for orchards.

The general views of those present seemed to be that more and better fruit might be grown in Maine; that the farmers be invited to join the pomological society and become interested in its work and aims. Young people should also find much to study. Miss Watson's collection of insects was one of the best things of the meeting.

The following officers were elected:—President, Z. A. Gilbert, North Greene; vice presidents, D. P. True, Leeds, and E. L. White, Bowdoin; treasurer, D. H. Knowlton, Farmington; secretary, D. H. Knowlton, Farmington; executive committee, C. E. Wheeler, Chesterville.

The banquet of Wednesday night was an innovation in the history of this society. The committee of arrangements for the range was made up of W. O. Breed, S. H. Dawes, Alphonso Moulton, Geo. R. Kimball, A. C. Buck, J. A. Chadwick and Samuel Chute. The ladies in charge of the banquet were Mrs. Bernice Watson, Mrs. Lizzie Doughty and Mrs. Lizzie Howard. It was a fine banquet which they prepared and at which 100 persons sat down. The post prandial exercises were presided over by President Z. A. Gilbert of the society, followed by Secretary D. H. Knowlton, W. O. Breed, O. S. Stetson, Alphonso Moulton, Prof. Gully of Connecticut, Prof. Dorsey of the Maine University, Editor Thorpe of the Maine Farmer, Mrs. V. P. DeCoster of Buckfield and Uncle Solon Chase. The speeches were exceedingly bright.

Dr. E. P. Turner of New York, who has purchased a farm in New York, said that Maine has a wonderful future if the people could only realize it. Look at the money that has been expended in Florida orange groves in the last few years. It has been squandered and the business is now flat. How much better it would have been to have used the money in planting orchards on these hillsides in Maine!

The apples exhibited were of fine quality and in great abundance. There were also pears and other fruits and quantities of flowers and plants. The collections of fruit were judged by S. P. Maynard of Northboro, Mass. He also judged the pears. S. G. Shurtleff of South Livermore looked after the individual plates. Mr. and Mrs. John W. True of New Gloucester judged the canned fruit. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. S. Pope of Manchester did the same for the plants and flowers.

Dr. George M. Twitchell gave a graceful talk on "What a Tree Told Me." He raised an orchard and what he learned by their daily growth. Rain is necessary but manure was needed still more. He put hogs in the orchard. Prof. M. J. Dorsey of the University of Maine read before the society on cold storage.

Thursday evening was given to the ladies. Bernice Watson gave a lecture on her nature studies. Mrs. V. P. DeCoster of Buckfield gave a lecture of general interest.

FEARFUL PAINS

SUGGESTIONS HOW WOMEN MAY FIND RELIEF.

While no woman is entirely free from periodical suffering, it does not seem to be the plan of nature that women should suffer so severely. This is a severe strain on a woman's vitality. When pain exists something is wrong which should be set right or it will lead to a serious derangement of the whole female organism.

Thousands of women have testified in grateful letters to Mrs. Pinkham that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound overcomes woman's special pains and irregularities.

It provides a safe and sure way of escape from distressing and dangerous weaknesses and diseases.

The two following letters tell so convincingly what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will do for women, they cannot fail to bring hope to thousands of sufferers.

Miss Nellie Holmes, of 540 N. Division Street, Buffalo, N. Y., writes:

"Your medicine is indeed an ideal medicine for women. I suffered misery for years with painful periods, headaches, and bearing-down pains. I consulted two different physicians but failed to get any relief. A friend from the east advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so, and no longer suffer as I did before. My periods are natural; every ache and pain is gone, and my general health is much improved. I advise all women who suffer to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Tillie Hart, of Larimore, N. D., writes:

"I might have been spared many months of suffering and pain had I only known of the efficacy of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Gilman's Pardon Tabled.

A hearing on the petition for executive clemency for Ephraim Gilman, who for 43 years has been serving a life sentence in the State prison for the murder of Mrs. Hattie B. Swan at Fryeburg in 1861, was held Thursday by the Governor and Council. The petition was strongly opposed by Mrs. Mary Fifield of Fryeburg, a daughter of Mrs. Swan, who was in bed with her mother when the crime was committed. Mrs. Fifield stated that she was afraid that if Gilman should be liberated he would show his revenge. The matter was tabled, until the next meeting, December 13.

"SAVED MY LIFE"

—That's what a prominent druggist said of Scott's Emulsion a short time ago. As a rule we don't use or refer to testimonials in addressing the public, but the above remark and similar expressions are made so often in connection with Scott's Emulsion that they are worthy of occasional note. From infancy to old age Scott's Emulsion offers a reliable means of remedying improper and weak development, restoring lost flesh and vitality, and repairing waste. The action of Scott's Emulsion is no more of a secret than the composition of the Emulsion itself. What it does it does through nourishment—the kind of nourishment that cannot be obtained in ordinary food.
No system is too weak or delicate to retain Scott's Emulsion and gather good from it.

We will send you a sample free.

Be sure that this picture in the form of a label is on the wrapper of every bottle of Emulsion you

Divorce.

The National Congress on Uniform Divorce Laws, Tuesday Nov. 13th, at Philadelphia, began the consideration of a bill for adoption by all the states in the Union.

Article four as adopted is as follows:
"Causes for divorce from bed and board shall be:

- "A—Adultery.
- "B—Bigamy at the suit of the innocent and injured party to the first marriage.
- "C—Conviction and sentence for at least two years for crime.
- "D—Extreme cruelty on the part of either husband or wife such as to endanger the life or health of the other party or render co-habitation unsafe.
- "E—Willful desertion for two years.
- "F—Habitual drunkenness for two years.
- "G—Hopeless insanity of the husband."

Article five was adopted without debate. It is as follows:

"No decree for divorce shall be granted if it appears to the satisfaction of the court that the suit has been brought by collusion or that the plaintiff has procured or connived at the offence charged, or has condoned it, or has been guilty of adultery not condoned."

At this congress practically every state and territory is represented. As soon as practicable the delegates will be asked to have the proposed new law enacted in their respective states.

The act is divided into three chapters, the first consisting of jurisdictional provisions, the second procedure and the third general provisions, and is entitled "An act regulating annulment of marriage and divorce."

While little or no change is made in the given causes for divorce as now existing, certain provisions were evidently made with a view of arresting the increasing demand for legal severance of marital bonds.

Under these stipulations secret or star-chamber sessions for hearing divorce cases before masters or other representatives of the courts are done away with, and "all hearings and trials shall be had before the court and in all cases be public." It is also provided that "a decree dissolving the marriage tie so completely as to permit the re-marriage of either party should not become operative until the lapse of a reasonable time after hearing of trial upon the merits of the case."

The first meeting was held at Washington nine months ago, when an ad-jourment was taken to permit a committee to draft a bill on uniform divorce laws to be presented to the legislature of all the states. The bill drawn by the committee names six causes for which divorces can be granted. They are infidelity, bigamy, desertion, habitual drunkenness and intolerable cruelty.

[To be continued.]

CURES NERVE PAINS.

Remarkable Medical Discovery That Is Sold Under Absolute Guarantee.

The fact that Neuralgic Anodyne is sold under an absolute guarantee to refund the money unless it cures neuralgia, nervous headache, rheumatism and all nerve ills and aches is the strongest proofs that can be given as to its wonderful efficacy.

No other remedy for neuralgia can do as much good as Neuralgic Anodyne. The ordinary remedy is either used internally or simply applied externally, while Neuralgic Anodyne is used in both ways.

A little of the remedy is taken in sweetened water, while the affected parts are bathed freely. A large bottle costs but 25c and is sold by dealers everywhere with the understanding that the money will be refunded if it does not do all that is claimed for it. Made by The Twitchell-Chapman Co., Portland, Maine.
